

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to novel sulfenamides that have physiological activity, particularly an antimicrobial action, methods for their 5 synthesis, pharmaceutical compositions containing them and methods of treatment of patients, in particular, those suffering microbial infections.